Co-Star Design Team,

My friends and I use Co-Star every day. What keeps us coming back is how it lets us share something personal with each other.

I start from the qualities something needs, then find the form. Recast is my version of that, a Chrome extension I designed and built in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript because I wanted control over typography and color on any webpage. Draft is a voice-to-design app I built in Swift that turns spoken prompts into palettes, layouts, and moodboards.

At Victory Creative Group I designed and shipped the Fanatics Fest purchase flow with one engineer for 125,000 attendees, reviewed builds and flagged spacing and type fixes before launch, and created Sun Life x Team Canada campaign visuals that ran on TV. With Acuity I turned dense biometric data into clear visuals so no one has to learn the system to use it, the way Co-Star makes astrology accessible without asking anyone to learn it.

I'd love to show my work and prototypes rather than talk about them. I'm in New York and ready to start right away.
